

IN PLACE OF STRIFE

The Mediation Chambers

Matthew Greenberg

Matthew Greenberg is a CEDR-accredited full-time commercial mediator and a solicitor with 20 years' experience in litigation and dispute resolution in the City of London.

Matthew is now an experienced mediator, and has practised in the following areas:

- commercial contract
- company and partnership
- construction
- defamation
- employment
- financial services
- gaming
- inheritance
- insolvency
- insurance
- investment and retail banking
- investment banking
- pensions
- personal injuries
- probate
- product liability
- professional liability
- real property
- shipping
- tax
- personal injuries

Matthew practised as a solicitor for over 15 years, handling the following claims:

- professional liability: claims against solicitors, barristers, accountants, surveyors, insurance brokers, architects and certificated bailiffs
- product liability claims: involving the food, printing and pharmaceutical industries
- banking
- partnership
- construction

Matthew has been involved in mediation in the UK since its infancy and has had substantial experience in mediating disputes since the mid 1990's.

Matthew Greenberg's Style

Matthew sees his role as actively listening to the parties with a steady curiosity and to understand (and to help the parties to understand) their dispute and what lies behind it. He is therefore thoughtful and attentive but he also believes in a robust approach where it is necessary to test the parties' own evaluations of their case.

"Instantly created a professional and business-like environment".

"Has a natural authority and is absolutely calm".

"Matthew has a very controlled manner and is very disciplined in the way he listens".

"Matthew is sensitive to room dynamics".

"Very friendly, sensible, firm where necessary, commercial"